ORCHARD'S EVIDENCE

Declared Untrue by a Witness for the Defense.

WILLIAM F. DAVIS TESTIFIES

Alleged Leader of Mob That Destroyed Mill Declares Orchard Did Not Tell the Truth — Says Orchard Threatened to Kill Steunenberg.

Boise, Ida., June 27.—William F. Davis of Goldfield, Nev., one of the most important witnesses for the defense of William D. Haywood, accused of the murder of Frank Steunenberg, was called to the stand and his cross-examination had not been completed when court adjourned Wednesday evening. Harry Orchard testified that Davis led and commanded the mob that destroyed the Bunker Hill and Sullivan mill in 1899; inspired, as the agent of Haywood and Meyer, the vindicator explosion and the train wrecking plot at Cripple Creek and was an accomplice in the Independence station crime.

On direct examination by Clarence Darrow, he went over the story of his working life, including the pathetic story of the death of his wife and babe at Cripple Creek, at which he wept, and made positive denial of every statement of Orchard that involved him or his associates in any form of crime. He denied that he was even a member of the union when the Bunker Hill and Sullivan mine was blown up and at the conclusion of his general story swore that at Cripple Creek during the strike Orchard told him of the Hercules mine affair and threatened to kill Steunenberg.

The cross-examination of Davis by Senator Borah was severe and searching and was chiefly devoted as far as it proceeded with the Bunker Hill and Sullivan affair and the circumstances under which Orchard made the threat against Steunenberg. Davis asserted that he remained at Gem the day the Bunker Hill mill was blown up and while he said he saw the train in charge of the masked mob arrive and depart from Gem, he could not name anyone on the train except the engineer, Hutton. He said there was no excitement and made no inquiry about the mob. He said that he remained in hiding after the mill was blown up, because

He Did Not Want to Be Deported or thrown into the "bull pen" and that he changed his name when he departed for Butte shortly after because he feared the mine owners' blacklist, made up from a petition that the employees of the Bunker Hill had sent to Governor McConnell protesting against the unsafety of the mine. Borah showed that the petition had been presented six years before and that Butte was a federation camp where the blacklist was ineffective. Passing to the threat Orchard made against Steunenberg, the witness was unable to recall what anyone else had said on that occasion except the words of Orchard. Davis will return to the stand.

Mrs. Lottie Day of Denver testified that in 1904 Orchard told her about the loss of the Hercules interest and with it the chance "to support the only woman he ever really loved," and that he said he would kill Steunenberg for the wrong done him; and John D. Elliott, an old soldier, swore that Orchard told him on a train in Idaho in the fall of 1905 that he was in the employ of the mine owners and that there was a plot against the federation and its leaders.

Cross-examination showed the fact that Elliott had twice been an inmate of an insane asylum, with a mind unbalanced by family troubles.

John M. O'Neill, editor of the Miners' Magazine, was the only other witness. He testified that Orchard came to his office early in 1905 and asked for the address of Governor Peabody and General Sherman Bell, who he said should be "bumped off." O'Neill said that he referred Orchard to a city directory.

The state used the cross-examination of O'Neill to make it clear that the magazine was the official organ of the federation and expressed its views and to read to the jury some sneering articles about the death of Steunenberg. O'Neill also said he had seen Orchard at federation headquarters several times and that Steve Adams and Mrs. Adams had also been there.

HIGH WATER IN MONTANA

Responsible for Considerable Loss of Life.

Butte, Mont., June 27.—Advices from throughout the state tell of considerable loss of life as the result of high water and swollen streams.

Word from Great Falls tells of the drowning near Asta of Mrs. J. C. Furman, her two sons and Laura Williams, ten years old, in Simms creek. Only one body, that of Mrs. Furman, has been recovered.

AT THE TIME OF THE TRAGEDY

Defense Claims That Judge Loving Was Insane.

Houston, Va., June 27.—Interest in the trial of Judge Loving for the murder of young Theodore Estes lagged somewhat Wednesday. The features were the closing of the case of the defense after the examination of three witnesses for the purpose of proving that Judge Loving was insane at the time of the killing of young Estes and the first presentation by the attorneys for the prosecution of what they intend to prove if certain witnesses are allowed to testify.

The plea of the defense is that the mind of Judge Loving had after years of dissipation, which frequently caused him to have delirium tremens from excessive drinking of whiskey, become so impaired that when he heard the story of his daughter, Miss Elizabeth Loving, that she had been dragged and assaulted, he became deranged and was not responsible for his act in killing Estes.

Counsel for the defense hope through the plea of emotional insanity to prevent any attempt to impeach the statement of Miss Loving. The prosecution announced as their first witness Miss Annie Kidd, who they said would disprove the story of Miss Loving. This was immediately objected to and the jury retired, after which a lengthy legal discussion was gone into. The attorneys for the defense argued that the prosecution had no right to enter into the truth or the falsity of the story told by Miss Loving to her father and as an example cited the New York case in which District Attorney Jerome was not allowed to impeach the testimony of Evelyn Thaw.

The ruling of Judge Barksdale on this point is deemed most important by the counsel in the case, as the prosecution claims to have witnesses to disprove every statement made by the girl witness.

POWER OF HOUSE OF LORDS

House of Commons Passes Resolution Favoring Its Curtailment.

London, June 27.—The three days' debate in the house of commons ended when Premier Campbell-Bannerman's resolution in favor of curtailing the power of the house of lords in vetoing bills passed in the house of commons was carried by 432 to 147 amid loud ministerial cheers. The amendment introduced by A. Henderson (Labourite, Durham) for a total abolition of the house of lords was previously rejected by 315 to 100, the minority being composed of Labourites, Nationalists and a few Radicals. In this division the Unionists as a body abstained from voting.

The speeches throughout have been of an interesting character, maintaining a high level. Herbert H. Asquith, chancellor of the exchequer, in winding up the debate remarked incidentally that in his view the opinion of the country was against a single chamber. By adopting Premier Campbell-Bannerman's resolution, he said, they would take the first and longest step on the road to the final emancipation of the people.

The premier on leaving the house was given a great ovation.

ROBBERY WAS THE MOTIVE

Terrific Explosion of Bombs at Tiflis, Transcaucasia.

Tiflis, Transcaucasia, June 27.—Ten bombs were thrown into Erivan square, in the center of the town, which was thronged with people. The missiles exploded with terrific force. Many persons were killed or injured and windows and doors were shattered over a large area.

Later it developed that the outrage was connected with an attack on the treasury. A wagon containing $125,000, escorted by Cossacks, had reached Erivan square when the bombs were thrown and an explosion followed. Two employees of the Imperial bank were killed. The number of the other victims has not yet been ascertained. The bags containing the money disappeared and no trace of them have been found.

The police have not succeeded in making arrests but are continuing their search.

A bomb exploded in a house adjoining Erivan square, killing two brothers and wounding a third who were trying to hide a quantity of revolutionary articles. More than 50 persons were injured in the bomb outrage and $170,000 was stolen.

AGAINST THE CRAFTERS.

Rudolph Spreckels Perfecting a Permanent Safeguard.

San Francisco, June 27.—It has been announced by Rudolph Spreckels that he has almost perfected a plan for a permanent safeguard against the crafters and that he hoped to put it in operation by the first of the year. The plan contemplates the formation of a civic auditing agency, which is to follow every movement of the city government and keep close watch on the officers from mayor down.

Mr. Spreckels said he figured that the scheme could be put into practice at an expense of $100,000 a year and that it would effect a saving to the taxpayers of $2,000,000 to $3,500,000.

FOR THE EIGHTH TIME

Cornell Captures the Varsity Eight-Oared Race.

CONTEST IS MOST EXCITING

Ithacans Win by the Narrowest Margin From Columbia After a Desperate Struggle—Wisconsin Wins the Freshmen Eight-Oared Race.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 27.—Cornell won the varsity eight-oared race at the Intercollegiate regatta for the eighth time in the most exciting contest ever rowed over the four-mile Poughkeepsie course.

Cornell's time over the course was 20:02 1/2. Columbia was second, United States naval academy third, Pennsylvania fourth, Wisconsin fifth, Georgetown sixth and Syracuse did not finish, her shell being swamped a half mile from the finish line. The Ithacans won by the narrowest margin from Columbia and until the finish line was crossed and the judges announced that Cornell had won, the thousands of spectators both afloat and ashore were in doubt as to which crew won the victory.

Cornell and Columbia fought for the honors of the race over the whole four miles of the course and at no time during the entire distance were the two shells more than twenty-five feet apart.

Columbia led for over three miles and then Cornell took the lead only to lose it to Columbia again. In the last 100 feet of the race Cornell by a strenuous spurt shot the nose of her shell out into the lead and swept over the finish line under the glare of a big search light on board the United States monitor Arkansas five feet ahead of Columbia. The Annapolis crew rowed a magnificent race and finished two lengths behind Columbia.

Syracuse Captured One Race.

Syracuse captured the honors of the varsity four-oared shells from Cornell, Pennsylvania and Columbia, which finished in the order named. Syracuse finished two lengths ahead of Cornell and her time over the two miles course was 10 minutes, 37 1/2 seconds.

Wisconsin won the freshmen eight-oared shell race over the course of two miles, leading Syracuse over the finish line by one length and covering the distance in 9 minutes, 56 seconds. Pennsylvania was third, Columbia fourth and Cornell fifth.

Columbia rowed the last quarter of the mile with an almost waterlogged shell which filled near the stern when three feet of planking was ripped out by striking a submerged log.

The varsity race was postponed until after 7 o'clock on account of rough water. Twenty thousand people saw the races. Secretary of the Navy Metcalf viewed the contest from the gunboat Yankeet while nearly 400 midshipmen cheered the Annapolis crew from the observation train and from the bridge and conning towers of the United States monitors Arkansas, Florida and Nevada.

TERRIFIC STORM.

Sweeps Over the Oil Fields of Northern Indian Territory.

Muskogee, I. T., June 27.—A terrific storm in the nature of a cyclone followed by a cloudburst swept the oil fields of Northern Indian Territory. Frank Roper is known to be dead and two others are said to have been found whose names are not known.

Water rushed down the streets of Sapulpa over a foot in depth. Plate glass was broken throughout the town and the roof was torn from the hotel.

Over 150 derricks are reported down in the Glenn Pool and it is said all the oil derricks in the Osage Nation have been swept away. Fifty-four derricks are reported down at Turley, I. T. At Maize, I. T., houses were overturned and brick buildings demolished.

The general loss throughout the oil fields will be enormous, but at present cannot be estimated. Many wells are running wild, the oil flooding the land.

The Combination oil and gas well at Sapulpa was struck by lightning and the fire cannot be brought under control. One building of the Creek Orphans' home was struck and destroyed. The total loss by the storm is estimated at $500,000.

Kills Himself in Jail.

Newark, N. J., June 27.—Raphael Savaro, who Tuesday pleaded guilty to a charge of assaulting an eleven-year-old girl, killed himself in jail here. He dived from a balcony on the third floor to the lower floor, a distance of thirty feet, and struck on his head.

No Prospect of a Crisis.

Lisbon, June 27.—It is officially announced that King Charles and Premier Franco are in complete accord and that there is no prospect of a ministerial crisis.

When they were about a mile from shore Messrs. Clark and O'Mahoney attempted to change seats with the common result that the boat over turned. They grabbed the boat and hung on while Mr. Ryan was thrown so far from the boat that with the wind and waves against him he saw that it was impossible to reach it and struck out for the shore which he saw was about a mile away, but which looked ten times that distance. Fortunately the wind and the waves were with him and he reached the shore safely, though nearly exhausted. Meanwhile the other gentlemen clung to the boat, which was also blown to the shore and they waded out in safety. M. E. says he don't want to review his past life again soon as rapidly as he did during that swim.

JOHN H. BANKHEAD.

JOHN H. BANKHEAD, former congressman, who was appointed by Governor Comer of Alabama to fill the vacancy in the United States senate made by the death of Senator John T. Morgan, holds his appointment only until the meeting of the legislature July 19, when that body will choose some one to serve out the unexpired term of Mr. Morgan. Mr. Bankhead ran first in the Democratic primary for alternate senator last August. He and former Governor Joseph E. Johnston were selected at the primary to fill any vacancies that might occur by either of the sitting members from Alabama dying or being incapacitated. His appointment by Governor Comer is considered to strengthen his chances of election by the legislature. In 1904 he contested the Democratic nomination to the house of representatives with Captain Richmond P. Hobson and defeated the man who sank the Merrimac. Two years later Captain Hobson defeated him in the contest for the same nomination and was elected to congress.

Mr. Bankhead is a native of Alabama and about sixty-five years old. He is an ex-Confederate officer, a farmer and served in ten congresses. He has a weakness for gambling stories. One that he tells is of a time when an attempt was being made to drive gamblers out of Mobile. A witness was testifying for the defense, and it was well known that the judge was a skillful poker player. The witness talked of "going blind," "raising," "passing" and so on, and finally his honor said gravely: "Mr. Jackson, you are using a good many of what I presume are technical terms. Will you be good enough to explain some of them?" The witness, with equal gravity, replied, "I shall be pleased to do so, your honor, if you will kindly let me have your poker deck for a few moments."

It was a dramatic moment in the Haywood trial in Idaho when former Governor Peabody of Colorado entered the courtroom and handled the bomb which Harry Orchard confessed to having made for the governor's destruction. Another spectacular episode was the meeting between the ex-governor and Orchard. The latter was much affected and almost broke down at being greeted by the man whose life he had sought, but the former executive of the Centennial State reassured him, remarking, "I understand how it was with you." The dynamite had been taken from the death dealing machine when it was introduced in court, but it looked gruesome nevertheless. When Governor Peabody came into court he took a seat near the desk on which the formidable looking object was lying.

"Here's your bomb, governor," whispered one of the correspondents.

Mr. Peabody reached forward and with a half smile measured with his hands the instrument which had been made to hurl him into eternity.

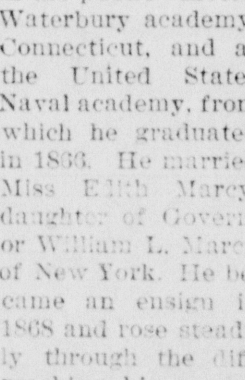

"It's pretty big," said he.

Mr. Peabody was governor of Colorado from 1903 to 1905 and was sworn in for a second term after having been declared re-elected by the legislature, but resigned, according to agreement, in favor of the man elected lieutenant governor. He is fifty-five years old and a native of Vermont.

Rear Admiral Charles S. Sperry, president of the war college at Newport, represents the naval branch of Uncle Sam's fighting force in the peace conference at The Hague. He was born in New York in 1847 and was educated in the public schools, Waterbury academy, Connecticut, and at the United States Naval academy, from which he graduated in 1863. He married Miss Eliza Mary daughter of Governor William L. Marcy of New York. He became an ensign in 1868 and rose steadily through the different grades until reaching his present rank. He is a member of the general board of the navy and is considered a high authority on the subject of international law as it affects naval warfare.

James R. Garfield, who has been working hard since March 1 to make a record as secretary of the interior, is a great admirer of his official chief, the president, and his fondness for Mr. Roosevelt's society is so pronounced that it has sometimes attracted good humored comment. He is a leading Sir Eldon Gorst, the new British consul general in Egypt, holds an office that is really more important than might appear from its name. He is to all intents and purposes the ruler of Egypt and succeeds in that post Lord Cromer, who has been described as "the maker of modern Egypt." The latter found the country almost ruined, her people desperate with suffering, her very existence in peril from the dervishes, and he left her in splendid prosperity, her taxes lightened, her finances on a firm basis and her people increasing in numbers. The new Egypt has aspirations to rule itself, and it will be Sir Eldon Gorst's duty to pave the way for some sort of constitutional government.

Though a Conservative, he was appointed by a Liberal government because he was considered the man best fitted by training and capacity to fill the position. He is forty-six years old and the eldest son of Sir John Eldon Gorst, who is still living. He was named after his father. When his ability brought him a knighthood he dropped his first name that there might not be two Sir Johns in the family. But in Egypt everybody still speaks of him as Johnnie Gorst. He went there when twenty-six as an attaché and rose rapidly through the diplomatic grades. He was financial adviser to the Egyptian government when in 1903 he was summoned to London to assist the foreign office in the negotiations which resulted in the Anglo-French agreement that so largely contributed to giving England a free hand in Egypt. His services were rewarded by the bestowal upon him of one of the most responsible positions in the permanent civil service, that of under-secretary of state for foreign affairs.

Brigadier General George Breckinridge Davis, the military expert of the United States delegation to the peace conference at The Hague, is judge advocate general of the United States army. He was born in Ware, Mass., in 1847, and graduated from West Point in 1871. He studied law at the Columbian university, Washington, and married in 1871 Miss Ella L. Prince of Springfield, Mass. Before going to the West Point academy he was a volunteer soldier in the Union army during the civil war, rising from the rank of sergeant to a second lieutenant before his eighteenth birthday. He was professor of law at West Point from 1895 to 1900 and reached his present rank in 1901. He is the author of a number of works on international law.

EXPECTING AN ATTACK.

San Salvador Preparing to Repel Nicaraguan Gunboats.

Mexico City, June 27.—Minister Delgado, representing the republic of San Salvador in Mexico, has received a cablegram from President Figueroa of that country saying that the republic of Nicaragua was fitting out a fleet of three gunboats on the Pacific side and that an attack was expected at any time.

The message added that Salvador was fortifying its ports in anticipation of the attack.

HAD NOT BEEN SICK AT ALL

Apoplexy or Some Similar Dis- ease Supposed to Have Been the Cause

A. W. Miller, well known in this city, died at his home a few miles out of town yesterday afternoon. He had not been sick, it is stated, and had eaten a hearty dinner, but was taken suddenly ill and died about 3 o'clock. There has been no final funeral arrangements made, but it is expected that it will take place tomorrow.

Mr. Miller has been in the market gardening business here for many years and leaves several sons and daughters here and two daughters living in Minneapolis.

The cause of death is said to have been apoplexy.

Hageline-Barrett

A pretty wedding took place yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the farm home of Mr. and Mrs. Zach T. Barret, one mile and a half east of the city, when Arthur Hageline of Brainerd was united in marriage to Virgie Celeste Barrett. The home was handsomely decorated with seasonable plants and flowers and was witnessed by forty of the immediate friends and relatives of the contracting parties. Walter Laurel, of Brainerd, was best man and Pearl A. Barrett, sister of the bride, attended her sister. Rev. Charles Fox Davis read the marriage ceremony. A wedding dinner followed the marriage. Mr. and Mrs. Hageline will make Brainerd their future home and will be at home to their friends next week on Kingwood street. Mr. Hageline is well known in Brainerd, having been with the Slipp-Gruenhagen firm for several years.

HAVE STARTED MACHINERY

Hoisting Apparatus at the McKinley Cedar Yards Has Been Put in Operation Successfully

The Geo. A. McKinley cedar yard is now running in full blast. The hoisting engine and chains were put in operation a few days ago and are working finely. They can now take out, sort and trim cedar poles at the rate of two a minute.

The National Pole company, the largest concern in the United States handling cedar poles is also said to be looking for a location on the tracks of the Northern Pacific railroad at Brainerd for the purpose of unloading, sorting and reloading poles. In very few instances are the poles loaded in large enough quantities at any one point to permit of car load shipments of one size of poles to be made direct to the consumer and the National Pole company is seeking a place where they can unload these poles and sort them. Brainerd should certainly endeavor to get them here.

Nothing Unusual.

Lord Cromer when ruler of Egypt made himself hateful to all sorts of rascals in that country, but he worked wonders of reform there and left it in more contented frame of mind than it had ever known previous to his arrival. Fire Notes

Fire Chief Johnson, who gave out and had to be taken home from the fire is able to be around today, but has to wear blue glasses yet.

The cellars of the Walverman and Grandmeyer blocks were pumped out yesterday and in the Bohemian club rooms in the basement of the former block the hard maple floor is humped up at least a foot.

Henry Linnemann was busy when seen this morning making a list of the stuff he had in the basement which was damaged by fire. He says it is a nasty mess at best.

John Carlson removed the salvage from his store to the Mahlum block, where he is drying it out.

Frank Drosky has placed the remnants of his stock of goods in the room in the Walker block, formerly occupied by Mann Bros.

Smith Brothers are pleasantly located in offices in the Walverman block.

INCREASE THE PAY ROLL

Employees of Uncle Sam at the Postoffice will Receive Handsome Increase in Salaries Commencing July 1st

The clerks and carriers in the employ of the government at the postoffice in this city are feeling that their services are appreciated by the announcement that on July 1st their pay will be tilted. The postmaster has received official notice that the three rural carriers' pay is to be increased to $900 per year and that the five city carriers will also receive that amount after the above date. Heretofore the rural carriers have been on the pay roll at $600 per month and it has been conceded that the remuneration was too low for the service performed, taking into consideration the fact that they are required to furnish their own team. The city carriers receive a raise of $50 per year and on July 1, 1908, will be raised to $1,000 per year upon recommendation of the postmaster for efficient service performed. The local office has received no official communication regarding the raise in the salary of the clerical force, but as the official dispatches from Washington this morning credit the Brainerd office with a raise in salary of three clerks from $600 to $800 and one from $800 to $900 there is no question but that they are also included in the list of lucky ones. C. R. Nash, mail clerk on the M. & I. also receives a raise in salary of from $1,000 to $1,100.

HAS DOG POLICEMAN

Brainerd Has Monster St. Bernard Dog That Preserves the Peace Among Other Canines

Geo. West's big black and white St. Bernard dog Rover, is familiar to all frequenters of the business section of Brainerd, but unless they have happened to observe him in the performance of his self assumed duty as a preserver of the peace among his fellows, few of them know of his work in that line. He is peaceable in his disposition and like a certain famous warrior will have peace if he has to fight for it. If he sees a dog fight he makes a rush into the midst of it with a hoarse bark and growl and knocks the combatants right and left. If they are content to separate, and they usually are, he stands and keeps watch until they leave and then stalks home with a dignified and self satisfied air.

STEPHEN GIRARD.

The Eccentric Millionaire Was a Man of Many Moods.

To get a subscription from Stephen Girard, founder of Girard college in Philadelphia, was not an easy matter. It required tact and the right introduction, and many failed, while few succeeded. It is told by the author of "The Blood in America" that Samuel Coates, a genial Quaker, was one of the few men who knew how to approach the eccentric millionaire.

He was a manager of the Pennsylvania hospital and called on Girard for the purpose of raising money for the support of that institution.

"Well, how much do you want, Coates?" asked Girard in his usual brusque tones.

"Just what three pleases to give, Stephen," replied the Quaker. Girard wrote out a check for $2,000 and, handing it to Mr. Coates, was surprised to see that gentleman pocket it without looking at the amount.

"What! You don't look to see how much I give you?" cried Girard incredulously.

"Beggars must not be choosers, Stephen," replied the Quaker.

"Give me back my check, and I will change it," said Girard after a moment's pause.

"A bird in the hand is worth two in the bush, three knows, Stephen," mildly replied the Quaker. Without another word Girard sat down and wrote him out a second check for $5,000.

His farm on the outskirts of Philadelphia was one of the best in the country, and while living in town he often drove out before breakfast to see that all was going well. He was very exacting with his hired hands and never trusted the management of his farm to any one else, but ran it himself, as he did all his affairs. Arriving one morning a little earlier than usual, he was greatly annoyed at not finding his man at work on a fence that he was building. The man's wife, noticing Girard approaching the house, hurriedly awoke her husband and sent him to his duties by way of the back door. After visiting the house Girard returned to the fence and, seeing the man at his post, reprimanded him for being late.

"I'd been here, sir, but went back for a spade," said the workman.

"No, you hadn't. I went and put my hand in your bed and found it warm," replied Girard, and he discharged the man on the spot.

A Waitress Too Optimistic.

"A mistake was made when I ate at this place five years ago," said a man to the waitress at the lunch counter in the Union depot.

"Suppose I give you too much money in making change," said the young woman.

"No, that's not the trouble. I was short 20 cents."

"Well, I wasn't here five years ago," she snapped as she left to wait on another customer.—Kansas City Star.

Tears Not Idle.

"My doctor tells me a good cry is beneficial."

The second woman, opening her purse, displayed a first class return ticket to Europe.

"A good cry gained me this," she said.—New York Press.

TO SUMMON OIL MEN

Judge Landis of Chicago Desires Information.

DETERMINED TO OBTAIN IT

Court Announces That the Information Must Be Secured and to That End Directs That Standard Oil Officials Be Subpoenaed.

Chicago, June 27.—Detailed information regarding the financial condition of the Standard Oil company is to be given in the United States district court before Judge Landis, even though it is necessary to summon the leading men of the company to obtain it.

This was made clear when Judge Landis after an unsuccessful attempt to obtain the information he desired from other sources ordered United States District Attorney Sims to issue subpoenas returnable July 6 for officials and directors of the Standard Oil corporations. It will be left to the discretion of the district attorney what men are to be summoned, but the court announced that the information must be secured.

The court proceedings were not filled with comfort for the Standard Oil company or its attorneys. Judge Landis some weeks ago directed that the attorneys for the company and for the government come into court June 26 prepared to furnish him with information regarding the financial condition of the Standard Oil company, as he believed that if a fine was to be assessed against the company in pursuance of its recent conviction on the charge of using illegal freight rates, it should be proportioned to the amount of assets possessed by the defendant.

Motion for New Trial Overruled.

Attorney John S. Miller for the Standard Oil Company at the opening of court made a motion for a new trial. This was overruled. He then entered a motion in arrest of judgment and this also was overruled. He then made a motion that the government should be ordered to elect a specific count in the indictment on which to base the final judgment of the court. This last motion if sustained would have limited the fine to $20,000, the maximum for a single offense. The motion, however, was denied and the court can under the conviction punish the company with fines aggregating $22,250,000 on the 1,462 counts in the indictments that have been held good by the courts.

The court then ordered J. H. Howard, former auditor of the Chicago and Alton railroad, to take the stand. The attorneys for the Standard Oil company objected to Howard's testimony, declaring it to be improper, but the court ruled against them. The examination of Mr. Howard was confined to a 10-cent tariff on oil sold to have been issued by the Alton railroad in 1905. The evidence of Howard was meager and unsatisfactory. He was followed on the witness stand by Frederick S. Holland, chief clerk for the Alton road during the time that the Standard Oil company's alleged violations of law are said to have occurred. He was also an unsatisfactory witness.

J. M. Stanley and J. H. Smith, clerks with the Chicago and Eastern Illinois, were also examined but nothing of consequence was elicited from them.

Judge Landis then issued his order directing the district attorney to obtain subpoenas for the president, secretary and treasurer of the Standard Oil company of Indiana and such other persons as may in his judgment be necessary to obtain the desired information in regard to the financial resources of the defendant corporation.

PASSENGERS HORRIFIED.

Body of a Man Thrown Through Window Into a Trolley Car.

New York, June 27.—Passengers on a trolley car crossing the Brooklyn bridge were horrified when the rear window suddenly crashed in, admitting the form of a man who landed senseless and bleeding in the car aisle.

Where the man came from is a mystery and he was dead when an ambulance surgeon reached the scene a few minutes later. The neck was broken and a fractured rib had pierced a lung.

How he came to be thrown through the window into the car may never be known as the police after a thorough investigation failed to determine how such an accident was possible.

Charged With Embezzlement.

Minneapolis, June 27.—J. U. Barnes, president of the defunct Minnesota Title Insurance and Trust company of Minneapolis, was arrested on a warrant charging him with embezzlement of $13,000 of the funds of the trust company. The arrest was made primarily to hold Barnes to the grand jury, which is expected to take up matters concerning the trust company finances, as it is alleged that a short age of approximately $150,000 has been found in the affairs of that corporation.

General Logan's Brother Dead.

Murphyboro, Ill., June 27.—Thomas M. Logan, brother of General John A. Logan and the owner of one of the best racing stables in the Middle West, dropped dead at his home here, aged eighty years.

HOPES FOR THE END SOON

President Small Talks of the Telegraphers' Strike.

Oakland, Cal., June 27.—National President Samuel J. Small of the telegraphers said:

"I am hopeful that the present strike will not be prolonged. We are anxious to avoid any kind of trouble, but when forced to it we will of course fight. That is only natural. Should the two telegraph companies refuse to meet their operators in order to adjust the differences now existing, there is no doubt in the world that the struggle will continue until we can force a government investigation."

"We are willing and anxious to do anything in reason to adjust the present trouble. The union need not appear in the adjustment at all, as has often been stated before, if the employers of the telegraphers will deal honestly and honorably with their operators they will never hear of the union. We claim the sliding scale, blacklist and the employment of women at less than will pay their living expenses is dishonest, and in a way original. That is what both the Western Union and Postal Telegraph companies are doing all over the country."

IRRIGATED LAND OPENED.

First Completed Tract Thrown Open to Settlement.

Billings, Mont., June 27.—The formal opening of the first completed tract of irrigated land finished by the reclamation service of the national government took place here. Secretary of the Interior James Garfield, accompanied by E. W. Newell, director of the reclamation service; A. P. Davis, chief engineer of the service; Gifford Pinchot, chief of the forestry department; Richard A. Ballinger, commissioner of the general land office, and H. N. Savage, supervising engineer of the reclamation service of the Northwest, were present.

Among the first fifty persons whose names were drawn are: A. T. Chatwick, Kirksville, Mo.; William Clark, Wilmont, Neb.; J. H. Jarvis, Atkinson, Ia.; Frank S. Baker, Buffalo, N. D.; J. F. Kerfoot, Ottumwa, Ia.; Alva E. Malcom, Whatcheer, Ia.; John C. Davis, Napoleon, O.

These will be permitted to select their holdings in the order in which their names appear.

CZAR ACCEPTS RESIGNATION

Comptroller of the Empire and Reactionary Leader Resigns.

St. Petersburg, June 27.—The emperor has accepted the resignation of Charles von Schwanebach, the comptroller of the empire and leader of the reactionary wing of the cabinet in the campaign for the dissolution of the duma. The retirement of Comptroller Schwanebach marks the culmination of Premier Stolypin's protracted struggle for the control of his own ministry.

Prior to the dissolution of the duma the premier twice demanded the resignation of the comptroller on account of his constant intrigues against M. Stolypin's policy of toleration to the duma, but the comptroller's position was so strongly backed at court that the premier was unable to prevail.

M. Stolypin's assent in the end to the dissolution of the duma deprived the comptroller of his exclusive influence and led finally to the presentation of his resignation and its acceptance by his majesty.

NINE MEN INDICTED.

Charged With Acts of Violence in Street Car Strike.

San Francisco, June 27.—The Oliver grand jury returned to Judge Lawler's court four indictments against nine persons charging them with acts of violence against the United Railroads in the present street car strike. Those indicted are:

John William Hayes, Barney Olsen, Charles Kugle, John Mitzen, Rudolph Schmitz, George Peterson, J. C. Wyle, J. H. Burns and J. Murray McDonald. The first named three are accused of assault with a deadly weapon—throwing bricks through car windows; the last six are charged with conspiracy to riot.

Most of the indicted persons are members of labor unions.

CONTRACTOR ARRESTED.

Charged With Being Implicated in Murder of Julius Rosenheimer.

New York, June 27.—James Murray, a contractor, who formerly lived in Little Falls, N. Y., has been arrested on a charge of having been implicated in the death of Julius Rosenheimer, a wealthy resident of Pelham, who was beaten to death in the garden around his home a few days ago. Murray denied any knowledge of the crime and declared that his arrest was the result of political ill-feeling against him in Little Falls where he formerly lived. Later Murray was released, having no difficulty in proving an alibi.

CROKER MAKES A RECORD

His English Derby Winner Captures the Irish Derby.

Dublin, June 27.—Richard Croker has made a record in racing history. He won the Irish Derby Wednesday with Orby, which won the English Derby of 1907. This is the first time that these two great classics have been won by the same horse.

The Irish Derby was run at Curragh. It is for three-year-olds for a stake of $5,000, the distance being a mile and a half, the same as in the English Derby.

With accrued penalties, Orby carried ten pounds extra, conceding three pounds to Cleg, which beat him last year at even weights. There was practically no betting on the race, Orby being at 1 to 10. He won in a common canter, and was seven lengths in front of Cleg, which also was beaten home by Orby's stable mate, Georgetown. An enormous crowd witnessed the race, and the famous horse was almost mobbed in the enclosure. Mr. Croker was present in the press box, but when he saw his two colts half way home he came out from a scramble to lead the winner back to the paddock. He received a great ovation as he led the procession past the stands.

Irish sportsmen are especially pleased that Mr. Croker should have raised the prestige of their Derby by entering his great three-year-old.

Richard Croker, Jr., also attended the meeting.

A WOMAN'S QUICK EYE.

It Was the Means of Gaining a Fortune at Monte Carlo.

Nearly every one who has been to Monte Carlo has heard of "Mamma" Vland, a little, bent old French woman, a widow, who played for years.

"Mamma" Vland played roulette each day from morning until night. Her ready eyes, twitching nervously, saw nothing but the ivory ball as it fell into the cell. As they watched her staggering from the gaming tables late at night people pitied her.

Her whole soul, her life, seemed absorbed in the awful desire of winning. The old woman at times lost heavily—for her; then she regained her losses. For a long time she was enabled to live and continue her feverish pursuit of the game.

One night the old woman lost nearly all her store. As she passed from the table, despair in her eyes, her attention was attracted by another wheel. She stopped and bent over the table. Again and again the wheel spun around and stopped. The old woman's eyes sparkled. A flush suffused her pallid cheeks.

As she left the room she clapped her hands, and her laugh—a shrill, mocking chuckle—laughed the gamblers as ominous, uncanny.

"Better watch the old woman!" one of the official lookouts told a detective. He followed "Mamma" Vland to her hotel. He listened outside of her door. There was no alarming sound. In a short while she extinguished her lights and evidently had retired.

The following evening she reappeared in the gaming hall. Her eyes still sparkled; her cheeks were still flushed. With her were several notorious gamblers. They approached a table. "Mamma" Vland began to play.

She won. The gamblers, who had loaned her money, watched. She played a second time and won and a third time and won. The gamblers looked on amazed and saw the old woman raking in thousands of francs.

During the evening the old woman sat by the table, playing persistently. Her winnings doubled, trebled, quadrupled and piled up about her.

The management became alarmed. A consultation was held. Special detectives were sent to watch her. Scores had gathered about the table, looking on breathlessly at her wonderful run of luck. The detectives reported to the management that "Mamma" Vland was playing a certain combination of numbers that invariably won.

One of the directors besought the old woman to desist playing. The bank would be broke, he declared. She smiled and continued to play.

The director offered her $50,000 to cease playing. He doubled the figure if she would tell him the secret of her success. He importuned her to take $200,000, $250,000, only cease waging her successful battle for gold.

Finally he offered her $300,000. Accepting this, "Mamma" Vland, gathering together her fortune, told him very quietly that in passing the table the night before her quick eye had detected that the ball of this particular wheel stopped at a certain place at regular intervals. The managers examined the wheel, found that it was out of order and congratulated themselves upon having compromised with the old woman.—Philadelphia North American.

Music and Digestion.

I have often spooned up my soup to waltz time and carved a steak, while "Waiting at the Church" appropriately symbolized my vexation at the delay of the waiter in bringing the table sauce. But perhaps the most thrilling experience is to eat a mutton chop to the torador song from "Carmen." That even rivals eating squash pie and cheese to List's "Second Hungarian Rhapsody." There are two gastro harmonic combinations I have not yet met with, however, but which I live in hopes of meeting, as a climax to my musical career. One is to eat roast goose to the vortspiel of "Parsifal," the other to find honey and the dance of Salome from the Strauss opera in happy conjunction. Somehow I could take a grim sort of satisfaction in the irony of these combinations. But I am still waiting.—Atlantic.

Indefinable Perfection.

Since the beginning of time the human brain has never succeeded in defining with the necessary exactitude what really constitutes a perfect woman.—Outlook.
